

Who is Portamedic®?

Portamedic®, the health information division of Hooper-Holmes Canada Limited, is recognized as Canada's leading paramedical provider. We work in partnership with your agent and your Insurance company to provide paramedical services.

What is a Paramedical?

A paramedical is a document used to obtain your medical information. As part of the underwriting process, for your insurance application, it is necessary for medical services to be performed.

Where and when will the paramedical exam take place?

A Portamedic® Health Professional will contact you to schedule an appointment at your earliest convenience. To meet your needs, the exam may be performed at your home, office or an exam centre.

What is included in the exam and how long will it take?

A routine exam includes your medical history, height, weight, urinalysis, blood pressure and pulse. The exam can usually be completed in twenty minutes; although may be longer contingent upon your medical history. Some of the questions may appear repetitive, but are necessary.

What kind of medical information will be asked?

The Health Professional will ask you the names and addresses of your physicians and/or specialists. They will also ask about any illnesses, surgeries, medications or any other treatments you may have had. You may wish to make notes in advance to save yourself time during your examination.

Are there any other requirements?

If additional testing is required, such as an ECG or blood test, you will be notified in advance by the Health Professional at the time that your examination is scheduled.

Specifics About Your Exam

In addition to completing the paramedical form, the Health Professional will measure your weight, height, blood pressure and may need to draw blood. If required, the Health Professional will draw enough blood for 2-5 tubes. As most of us tend to be a little nervous when it comes to having our blood drawn, you are encouraged to sit or lie down during the process. Feel free to discuss any apprehension you may have with the Health Professional. Every person is different and their veins may vary. If it appears that the Health Professional is taking their time, it could be that your veins are difficult to locate and should not be taken as an indication of the Health Professional's abilities. You may notice slight bruising following your blood draw. Any bruising will disappear within a few days. At your request, a copy of your blood test results can be forwarded directly to your personal physician. Please address this request in writing to the Underwriting Department of your insurance company.

Will my signature be required?

The Health Professional will advise you to review and sign the completed paramedical to confirm the accuracy of the information that you have provided. They will also request your signature for the Notice of Consent form which provides your consent for the requirements to be completed and authorizes the laboratory to release your test results to your insurance company.
